

IN THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE EIGHTH CIRCUIT

---

WHISKEY RIVER ON VINTAGE, INC., d/b/a WHISKEY RIVER ON VINTAGE; WHISKEY ON MAIN, INC., d/b/a WHISKEY RIVER; FOUNDERS
ON MAIN, INC., d/b/a FOUNDERS IRISH PUB,

Plaintiffs-Appellants,

v.

ILLINOIS CASUALTY COMPANY,

Defendant-Appellee.

---

On Appeal from the United States District Court for the Southern District of Iowa, Central Division (Hon. John A. Jarvey)
No. 4:20-cv-00185-JAJ

---

BRIEF OF THE RESTAURANT LAW CENTER AND IOWA RESTAURANT ASSOCIATION, AS AMICI CURIAE
IN SUPPORT OF PLAINTIFFS-APPELLANTS

---

Angelo I. Amador
RESTAURANT LAW CENTER
2055 L Street, NW, 7th Floor
Washington, DC 20036
(202) 492-5037
aamador@restaurant.org

John H. Mathias Jr.
David M. Kroeger
Gabriel K. Gillett
Counsel of Record
Michael F. Linden
JENNER & BLOCK LLP
353 N. Clark Street
Chicago, IL 60654
(312) 840-7220
ggillett@jenner.com

Counsel for Amici Curiae

CORPORATE DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

Amici curiae certify that they have no outstanding shares or debt securities in the hands of the public, and do not have a parent company. No publicly held company has a 10% or greater ownership interest in amici curiae.

/s/ Gabriel K. Gillett

Gabriel K. Gillett

TABLE OF CONTENTS

CORPORATE DISCLOSURE STATEMENT ..... i

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES ..... iii

STATEMENT REGARDING CONSENT.....1

STATEMENT OF INTEREST.....1

SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT .....3

ARGUMENT .....6

I. Restaurants Are Critical To Iowa’s Economy And Culture, And Sought Insurance Coverage To Help Survive Unprecedented Hardship. ....6

    A. The Restaurant Industry, Which Drives Billions Of Dollars In Revenue And Employs Millions Of Workers, Is In Crisis. ....6

    B. Insurers Have Wrongfully Denied Restaurants Business Interruption Coverage Under “All Risk” Insurance Policies.....10

II. This Is An Important Case Of First Impression Where The Court Applies De Novo Review. ....14

III. Policy Language, Interpretation Principles, And Precedent Support Finding Executive Shutdown Orders Caused Physical Loss Or Damage. ....18

    A. The Policy Language And Policy-Interpretation Principles Support Reversing The Decision Below. ....19

    B. Precedent Supports Reversing The Decision Below.....23

CONCLUSION .....28

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

	Page(s)
Cases
10E, LLC v. Travelers Indem. Co. , 2020 WL 5359653 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 2, 2020) .....	16, 23
A.Y. McDonald Indus., Inc. v. Ins. Co. of N. Am. , 475 N.W.2d 607 (Iowa 1991) .....	21
Best Rest Motel, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co. , 2020 WL 7229856 (Cal. Super. Ct. Sept. 30, 2020).....	15
Big Onion Tavern Grp., LLC v. Society Ins., Inc. No. 20-cv-02005 (N.D. Ill. Mar. 27, 2020) .....	13
Bituminous Cas. Corp. v. Sand Livestock Sys., Inc. , 728 N.W.2d 216 (Iowa 2007) .....	4, 19, 21
Blue Springs Dental Care, LLC v. Owners Ins. Co. , 2020 WL 5637963 (W.D. Mo. Sept. 21, 2020) .....	15, 20, 25
Boelman v. Grinnell Mutual Reins. Co. , 826 N.W.2d 494 (Iowa 2013) .....	5, 19
Cairns v. Grinnell Mut. Reins. Co. , 398 N.W.2d 821 (Iowa 1987) .....	20
Cajun Conti LLC v. Certain Underwriters at Lloyd’s, London , 2020 WL 6993790 (La. Civ. Dist. Ct. Nov. 4, 2020) .....	15
Cherokee Nation v. Lexington Ins. Co. , No. CV-2020-00150 (Okla., Cherokee Cnty., Jan. 29, 2021) .....	15
Colvin v. Taylor , 324 F.3d 583 (8th Cir. 2003) .....	14
Denison Municipal Utilities v. Iowa Worker’s Compensation Comm’r , 857 N.W.2d 230 (Iowa 2014) .....	20
Dino Palmieri Salons, Inc. v. State Auto. Mut. Ins. Co. , 2020 WL 7258114 (Ohio Ct. C.P. Nov. 17, 2020).....	15

Dundee Mut. Ins. Co. v. Marifjeren, 587 N.W.2d 191 (N.D. 1998) .....	27
Edgley v. Lappe, 342 F.3d 884 (8th Cir. 2003) .....	14
Elegant Massage, LLC v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 2020 WL 7249624 (E.D. Va. Dec. 9, 2020) .....	15, 23, 24
Farm Bureau Life Ins. Co. v. Holmes Murphy &amp; Assocs., Inc., 831 N.W.2d 129 (Iowa 2013) .....	5
Fashion Fabrics of Iowa, Inc. v. Retail Invs. Corp., 266 N.W.2d 22 (Iowa 1978) .....	19, 20
Feibelman v. Worthen Nat’l Bank, N.A., 20 F.3d 835 (8th Cir. 1994) .....	14
Goodwill Indus. of Orange County v. Phila. Indemnity Co., No. 30-2020-01169032 (Cal. Super. Ct. Jan. 28, 2021) .....	15
Gregory Packaging, Inc. v. Travelers Prop. Cas. Co. of Am., 2014 WL 6675934 (D.N.J. Nov. 25, 2014) .....	27
Grinnell Mut. Reins. Co. v. Voeltz, 431 N.W.2d 783 (Iowa 1988) .....	19
Henderson Road Rest. Sys. Inc. v. Zurich Am. Ins. Co., 2021 WL 168422 (N.D. Ohio Jan, 19, 2021) .....	15, 20, 23, 24
Hill and Stout PLLC v. Mut. of Enumclaw Ins. Co., No. 20-2-07925-1 (Wash., King Cnty. Nov. 13, 2020) .....	25
Homeowners Choice Prop. &amp; Cas. v. Maspons, 211 So. 3d 1067 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2017) .....	27
Hughes v. Potomac Ins. Co. of District of Columbia, 199 Cal. App. 2d 239 (1962) .....	25, 26
JGB Vegas Retail Lessee, LLC v. Starr Surplus Lines Ins. Co., 2020 WL 7190023 (Nev. Dist. Ct. Nov. 30, 2020) .....	15

Johansing Family Enters. LLC v. Cincinnati Specialty Underwriters Ins. Co. , 2021 WL 145416 (Ohio Ct. C.P. Jan. 8, 2021) .....	15
Johnston Jewelers, Inc. v. Jewelers Mut. Ins. Co., S.I. , 2020 WL 6556842 (Fla., Pinellas Cnty. Sept. 22, 2020).....	15
K.C. Hopps, Ltd. v. Cincinnati Ins. Co. , 2020 WL 6483108 (W.D. Mo. Aug. 12, 2020) .....	15, 20, 25
Kalell v. Mut. Fire &amp; Auto. Ins. Co. , 471 N.W.2d 865 (Iowa 1991) .....	5, 19
Lombardi's, Inc. v. Indem. Ins. Co. of N. Am. , No. DC-20-05751-A (Tex. Dist. Ct. Oct. 15, 2020).....	15
Malaube, LLC v. Greenwich Ins. Co. , 2020 WL 5051581 (S.D. Fla. Aug. 26, 2020) .....	23
Murray v. State Farm Fire &amp; Cas. Co. , 203 W.Va. 477 (1998) .....	26, 27
Musso &amp; Frank Grill Co., Inc. v. Mitsui Sumitomo Ins. USA Inc. , No. 20STCV16681 (Cal. Super. Ct. Feb. 1, 2021).....	15
N. Ins. Co. of N.Y. v. Aardvark Assocs., Inc. , 942 F.2d 189 (3d Cir. 1991) .....	16
New Castle Cnty. v. Hartford Accident &amp; Indem. Co. , 933 F.2d 1162 (3d Cir. 1991) .....	17
North State Deli, LLC v. The Cincinnati Ins. Co. , 2020 WL 6281507 (N.C. Sup. Ct. Oct. 9, 2020) .....	20, 24
Optical Servs. USA/JCI v. Franklin Mut. Ins. Co. , 2020 WL 5806576 (N.J. Super. Ct. Law Div. Aug. 13, 2020).....	15
Oregon Shakespeare Festival Ass'n v. Great Am. Ins. Co. , 2016 WL 3267247 (D. Ore. June 7, 2016) .....	27
Palmer v. Ill. Farmers Ins. Co. , 666 F.3d 1081 (8th Cir. 2012) .....	14, 21

Perry Street Brewing Co., LLC v. Mut. of Enumclaw Ins. , 2020 WL 7258116 (Wash., Spokane Cnty. Nov. 23, 2020).....	15
Prudential Ins. Co. of Am. v. Martinson , 589 N.W.2d 64 (Iowa 1999) .....	21
Sentinel Mgt. Co. v. New Hampshire Ins. Co. , 563 N.W.2d 296 (Minn. Ct. App. 1997).....	27
Studio 417, Inc. v. Cincinnati Ins. Co. , 2020 WL 4692385 (W.D. Mo. Aug. 12, 2020) .....	15, 20, 24
Taps &amp; Bourbon on Terrace, LLC v. Underwriters at Lloyds London , 2020 WL 6380449 (Pa. Ct. C.P. Oct. 26, 2020).....	15
Urogynecology Specialist of Fla. LLC v. Sentinel Ins. Co. , 2020 WL 5939172 (M.D. Fla. Sept. 24, 2020).....	15, 20
Other Authorities
9 Couch on Ins. § 127:11 (2020) .....	17
Eric Amel, et al., Independent Restaurants Are a Nexus of Small Businesses in the United States and Drive Billions of Dollars of Economic Activity That Is at Risk of Being Lost Due to the COVID-19 Pandemic (June 10, 2020).....	7, 8
Americas Soc’y et al., Bringing Vitality to Main Street: How Immigrant Small Businesses Help Local Economies Grow (Jan. 2015) .....	8
Joanna Fantozzi, ‘Free-fall’: 10,000 restaurants have closed over the past three months, according to the National Restaurant Association , Nation’s Restaurant News (Dec. 7, 2020) .....	9
Erin Murphy, Iowa regulators step up enforcement of COVID-19 rules at bars and restaurants , The Gazette (Nov. 29, 2020).....	9
Fed. R. App. P. 29(a)(4)(E).....	1
Gerleman Mgmt., Inc. v. Atl. States Ins. Co. , No. 21-1082 (8th Cir.) .....	2

Bruce Grindy, Consumers are Worried their Restaurants will not Survive the Pandemic, Nat'l Restaurant Ass'n (Aug, 18, 2020).....	9
Danny Klein, It Will Take Years for the Restaurant Industry to Recover , FSR Magazine (June 2020) .....	9
Heather Lalley, Report: Up To 85% of Independent Restaurants Could Close Due To Pandemic , Rest. Bus. (June 11, 2020).....	10
Merriam-Webster Dictionary .....	21
Nat'l Restaurant Ass'n, COVID-19 Update: The Restaurant Industry Impact Survey (Apr. 20, 2020).....	8, 9
Nat'l Restaurant Ass'n, Factbook: 2020 State of the Restaurant Industry (2020).....	6, 7, 8
Nat'l Restaurant Ass'n, Iowa Restaurant Industry at a Glance (2019) .....	7
Nat'l Restaurant Ass'n, National Restaurant Association Statement on Congressional Recess Without Recovery Deal (Oct. 27, 2020).....	10
Palmer Holdings and Investment v. Integrity Ins. Co. , No. 21-1040 (8th Cir.) .....	2
Penn Law, Covid Coverage Litigation Tracker .....	14
Press Release, Am. Prop. Cas. Ins. Ass'n, APCIA Releases New Business Interruption Analysis (Apr. 6, 2020) .....	13
U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics Quarterly Census of Employment and Wages, 2019-Q3 .....	7
Paul Willis, Farmers have support from Congress, and independent restaurants need help now , Des Moines Register (Nov. 15, 2020).....	7

STATEMENT REGARDING CONSENT

All parties consent to the filing of this amicus brief.<sup>1</sup>

STATEMENT OF INTEREST

The Restaurant Law Center (the “Law Center”) is a public policy organization affiliated with the National Restaurant Association, the world’s largest foodservice trade association. The industry is comprised of over one million restaurants and other foodservice outlets that represent a broad and diverse group of owners and operators—from large national outfits with hundreds of locations and billions in revenue, to small single-location, family-run neighborhood restaurants and bars, and everything in between. The industry employs over 15 million people, and is the nation’s second-largest private-sector employer. Through regular participation in amicus briefs on behalf of the industry, the Law Center provides courts with the industry’s perspective on legal issues in pending cases that may have industry-wide implications.

The Iowa Restaurant Association, the state affiliate of the National Restaurant Association, is the professional association for the restaurant and retail beverage industry in Iowa. The association promotes, protects, educates and advocates for the state's restaurant and tavern industries.

---

<sup>1</sup> Pursuant to Fed. R. App. P. 29(a)(4)(E), amici state that no party’s counsel authored this brief in whole or in part; that no party or party’s counsel contributed money that was intended to fund preparing or submitting the brief; and that no person other than the amici, their members, or their counsel contributed money that was intended to fund preparing or submitting the brief.

Amici and their members have a significant interest in the important issues raised by this case. Many businesses in the restaurant industry have sought business interruption coverage under “all risk” commercial insurance policies for the physical loss or damage they suffered as a direct result of unprecedented executive shutdown orders. Many of those restaurants have been unreasonably and categorically denied coverage on the basis that they supposedly have not incurred physical loss or damage even though their properties have been rendered non-functional, detrimentally altered, and physically impaired as a result of the orders. Although whether Plaintiffs-Appellants (“Whiskey River”) have stated a claim for coverage depends on the specific factual allegations in their pleadings, amici and their members have a strong interest in highlighting for the Court why certain issues raised in this appeal have potential importance to the restaurant industry as well.<sup>2</sup>

---

<sup>2</sup> RLC also has a strong interest in other pending appeals that raise similar issues under Iowa law, and where the district court similarly erred in dismissing business interruption claims. See, e.g., Palmer Holdings and Investment v. Integrity Ins. Co., No. 21-1040 (8th Cir.); Gerleman Mgmt., Inc. v. Atl. States Ins. Co., No. 21-1082 (8th Cir.).

SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

To complement Whiskey River’s arguments, amici write to provide this Court—which is among the first appellate courts to address these issues—with additional context about this case and to address why reversal is appropriate.

I. The restaurant industry is a significant sector of the Iowa economy and a substantial driver of economic activity across the country. The industry creates employment and entrepreneurship opportunities—including for women, minorities, and immigrants. It supports local farmers, draws tourists, produces significant tax revenue, and is an integral part of the cultural fabric in Iowa and beyond.

For years, restaurants in Iowa and elsewhere paid substantial premiums for business interruption coverage under “all risk” commercial property insurance policies. Those policies cover any and all risks, even unforeseen and unprecedented ones, unless specifically excluded. Restaurants bought that coverage with the reasonable understanding that the policies covered income lost as a result of “physical loss of or damage to” their property, as they understood those plain, ordinary, everyday words to mean.

Yet when the Governor of Iowa and others issued executive orders that caused such loss or damage—by detrimentally altering and materially impairing restaurants’ physical spaces, rendering them nonfunctional for their intended purposes—insurers uniformly denied coverage without legitimate justification.

Those improper denials come at a particularly challenging time for the industry, as it faces catastrophic financial losses. Hundreds of Iowa restaurants have already closed, and countless more will be forced to close—permanently. So restaurants have turned to the courts to obtain the coverage they are entitled to receive.

II. This is an issue of first impression arising in an unprecedented context. This Court applies de novo review, considering the issues independently and without according the decision below any deference. That is especially appropriate here because the district court committed some of the same interpretive and analytical errors as the cases it relied on, and because many other trial courts across the country—including courts in this Circuit—have found a plaintiff stated a claim for business interruption coverage by alleging it suffered physical loss or damage as a result of executive shutdown orders. As courts have done in other hotly contested insurance coverage cases, this Court should thus review the allegations of the complaint as well as the policy language, apply longstanding principles of policy interpretation, and resolve this case based on the unprecedented factual circumstances under which it arises.

III. This Court should reverse the district court’s decision. Bedrock canons of insurance policy interpretation principles hold that undefined terms should be given their plain and ordinary meaning and that a court should not inject additional terms or conditions into the policy. See Bituminous Cas. Corp. v. Sand Livestock

Sys., Inc., 728 N.W.2d 216, 220-21 (Iowa 2007). If a provision is susceptible to more than one reasonable interpretation, it should be construed in accordance with a policyholder’s reasonable expectations of coverage. Kalell v. Mut. Fire & Auto. Ins. Co., 471 N.W.2d 865, 866 (Iowa 1991). The test is not what the insurer or its attorneys intended the policy to mean, but what a reasonable person in the position of the insured would have understood the words to mean. The Court must “interpret the policy language from a reasonable rather than a hypertechnical viewpoint.” Boelman v. Grinnell Mutual Reins. Co., 826 N.W.2d 494, 502 (Iowa 2013). Undefined policy terms require no judicial redefinition: they are to be construed according to the meaning a layperson would ordinarily attach to it, not given “meanings only specialists or experts would understand.” Farm Bureau Life Ins. Co. v. Holmes Murphy & Assocs., Inc., 831 N.W.2d 129, 134 (Iowa 2013).

Applying these principles here, and taking Whiskey River’s allegations as true, the district court erred in finding Whiskey River had not sufficiently alleged that it suffered “physical loss” or “physical damage” to its property as a result of the executive shutdown orders. Whiskey River alleged that the orders “caused ‘direct physical loss of or damage to’ Plaintiffs’ covered property,” which among other things “frustrate[ed] the intended purpose of Plaintiffs’ businesses.” (Dkt. 22 ¶ 47; see also id. ¶ 78.)<sup>3</sup> Whiskey River’s pleading is thus sufficient to state a claim.

---

<sup>3</sup> Citations to “Dkt.” refer to the district court record.

Courts across the country—including in this Circuit—have found similar pleadings sufficient to state a claim in cases involving the same or similar policies. And courts across the country have long held that physical loss or damage may exist when property is rendered nonfunctional for its intended purpose, even without structural damage to property. This Court should reach the same conclusion here and reverse the decision below.

The district court reached a different conclusion based on redefining the policy’s “loss of or damage to property” to require “a physical invasion” of the insured property. But those added words appear nowhere in the policy, and reasonable consumers would not expect the policy to include such a requirement. The district court thus erred by reading those terms into the policy and granting judgment for the insurer.

ARGUMENT

I. Restaurants Are Critical To Iowa’s Economy And Culture, And Sought Insurance Coverage To Help Survive Unprecedented Hardship.

A. The Restaurant Industry, Which Drives Billions Of Dollars In Revenue And Employs Millions Of Workers, Is In Crisis.

The restaurant and foodservice industry plays a major role in Iowa’s economy. In 2019, the industry accounted for an estimated $4.9 billion in sales across nearly 6,400 locations.<sup>4</sup> The restaurant industry is also a considerable source of employment in the state, providing jobs to more than 150,000 people,<sup>5</sup> which amounted to 6.6% of Iowa’s total employment in 2019.<sup>6</sup> Over the next decade, that number is expected to grow by more than 10%.<sup>7</sup>

---

<sup>4</sup> Nat’l Restaurant Ass’n, Factbook: 2020 State of the Restaurant Industry (2020), <https://www.restaurant.org/downloads/pdfs/research/soi/2020-state-of-the->

Consumer spending at restaurants has a multiplier effect too. Every dollar spent at table-service restaurants—the businesses most threatened by the state’s shutdown orders—returns $1.71 to the state’s economy, not to mention the positive impact on the state’s tax revenue.<sup>8</sup>

A single restaurant contributes to the livelihood of dozens of employees, suppliers, purveyors, and related businesses like hotels.<sup>9</sup> That is particularly true in Iowa, where the success of independent farmers and ranchers is tied to the continued vitality of the restaurant industry. As one Iowa farmer recently put it: “the demand for our meat from restaurants across the country allows Niman Ranch farmers to make a living and, in turn, keeps rural farming communities alive.”<sup>10</sup> industry-factbook.pdf (“Factbook”).

---

<sup>5</sup> Id. at 77.

<sup>6</sup> U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics Quarterly Census of Employment and Wages, 2019-Q3.

<sup>7</sup> Factbook at 77.

<sup>8</sup> Nat’l Restaurant Ass’n, Iowa Restaurant Industry at a Glance (2019), <https://www.restaurant.org/downloads/pdfs/state-statistics/iowa.pdf>.

<sup>9</sup> Eric Amel, et al., Independent Restaurants Are a Nexus of Small Businesses in the United States and Drive Billions of Dollars of Economic Activity That Is at Risk of Being Lost Due to the COVID-19 Pandemic (June 10, 2020).

<sup>10</sup> Paul Willis, Farmers have support from Congress, and independent restaurants need help now, Des Moines Register (Nov. 15, 2020).

Restaurants are also cultural centers, creating unique neighborhood identities and driving commercial revitalization.<sup>11</sup> That is particularly true of the many small restaurants—often family-owned—that make up the vast majority of the industry. Indeed, the restaurant industry remains a shining example of upward mobility. Eight in ten restaurant owners say their first job in the industry was an entry-level position. Even more restaurant managers say the same.<sup>12</sup>

Restaurants also provide opportunities for historically disadvantaged communities. There are more women and minority managers in the restaurant industry than in any other industry,<sup>13</sup> and restaurants provide opportunity for immigrants to the United States—not only for employment, but also business ownership.<sup>14</sup>

The successes of the restaurant industry are neither self-sustaining nor guaranteed. Today, the industry is more at risk than ever before as restaurants have suffered catastrophic financial losses and continue to face unprecedented challenges.<sup>15</sup> As of April 2020, over eight million restaurant employees nationally—

---

<sup>11</sup>Amel, et al., supra note 8 at 13.

<sup>12</sup> Factbook, supra note 2.

<sup>13</sup> Id.

<sup>14</sup> Americas Soc’y et al., Bringing Vitality to Main Street: How Immigrant Small Businesses Help Local Economies Grow (Jan. 2015).

<sup>15</sup> Nat’l Restaurant Ass’n, COVID-19 Update: The Restaurant Industry Impact Survey (Apr. 20, 2020), <https://www.restaurant.org/downloads/pdfs/business/covid-19-infographic-impact-survey.pdf>.

nearly two-thirds of the restaurant workforce—had been laid off or furloughed. By May, almost 40% of all restaurants across the country were shuttered, and the industry lost over $80 billion in sales. Economists predict those numbers will only continue to rise, and the industry will have lost almost $250 billion in revenues in 2020.<sup>16</sup>

Iowa restaurants are in a moment of crisis. Conservatively, researchers estimate 15 to 20% of restaurants will permanently close nationwide.<sup>17</sup> More than 110,000 restaurants—17% of restaurants in the country—have already closed permanently or long-term.<sup>18</sup> These closures can be devastating. Nearly 90% of adults say “restaurants are an important part of their community.”<sup>19</sup> And the harm from closures reverberates through communities, impacting other local businesses and industries as well. According to the Iowa Restaurant Association, the industry is on track to lose roughly a billion dollars.<sup>20</sup> The state is expected to lose more than 1,000 restaurants by March of next year, along with thousands and thousands of local

---

<sup>16</sup> Id.

<sup>17</sup> Danny Klein, It Will Take Years for the Restaurant Industry to Recover, FSR Magazine (June 2020).

<sup>18</sup> Joanna Fantozzi, ‘Free-fall’: 10,000 restaurants have closed over the past three months, according to the National Restaurant Association, Nation’s Restaurant News (Dec. 7, 2020).

<sup>19</sup> Bruce Grindy, Consumers are Worried their Restaurants will not Survive the Pandemic, Nat’l Restaurant Ass’n (Aug. 18, 2020), <https://www.restaurant.org/articles/news/consumers-are-worried-restaurants-will-not-survive>.

<sup>20</sup> Erin Murphy, Iowa regulators step up enforcement of COVID-19 rules at bars and restaurants, The Gazette (Nov. 29, 2020).

jobs.<sup>21</sup> The numbers for independent restaurants are even more dire, with up to 85% at risk for closure.<sup>22</sup> As the National Restaurant Association put it, “[v]irtually every kind of restaurant is suffering: the corner diner, the independents, the individual owners of full-service restaurant chains.”<sup>23</sup>

B. Insurers Have Wrongfully Denied Restaurants Business Interruption Coverage Under “All Risk” Insurance Policies.

Faced with unprecedented losses as a result of executive orders forcing restaurants to severely alter and restrict their physical premises, restaurants throughout Iowa and across the country turned to their insurers for coverage under “all risk” commercial property insurance policies that included protection for business interruption.

“All risk” property policies insure against losses from unexpected and unprecedented circumstances, and provide coverage for “all risks” of any kind or description, unless specifically excluded. “Business interruption” insurance provides coverage—often up to a year or more—to replace business income lost as a result of a covered cause of loss. Under industry-standard “all risk” policies procured by

---

<sup>21</sup> Id.

<sup>22</sup> Heather Lalley, Report: Up To 85% of Independent Restaurants Could Close Due To Pandemic, Rest. Bus. (June 11, 2020).

<sup>23</sup> Nat’l Restaurant Ass’n, National Restaurant Association Statement on Congressional Recess Without Recovery Deal (Oct. 27, 2020), <https://restaurant.org/news/pressroom/press-releases/association-statement-on-congressional-recess-with>.

many in the restaurant industry, business interruption coverage is triggered when a restaurant suffers direct “physical loss of or damage to” its premises. These policies therefore provide consumers with comfort knowing they have coverage for even unforeseeable or unlikely risks that may physically impair their businesses.

Due to the breadth of coverage, restaurants paid substantial premiums for “all risk” property insurance policies that included business interruption coverage. In doing so, restaurants reasonably understood, expected, and believed that their policies would cover business income losses from any and all non-excluded risks, including executive shutdown orders, causing “physical loss of or damage to” their restaurants, as policyholders understood those words to mean.

The physical design of a restaurant is an essential element of its success. In a business known for tight margins, restaurant owners and operators thoughtfully utilize their physical space to maintain the level of revenue necessary to support their staff and other operational costs. Table service restaurants, for example, were not designed to operate as a hub for take-out or delivery. They have far larger dining areas than a take-out only operation, and most have proportionally smaller kitchens than a restaurant designed only to produce food. Those dining areas are built out, often at significant expense, to create the kind of warm, inviting ambience that draws guests in. Restaurant dining is an experience, not just a financial transaction. The physical space and layout play a crucial role in that experience.

Insurers know this. They price and charge premiums based on the policyholder's properties operating in a fully functional manner—whether as restaurants, bars, venues, or another type of food service business—and based on the available square footage at the outset of the policy period. Insurers also account for the prospect of having to pay claims for lost business at levels commensurate with the policyholder being a fully operational business. Business interruption coverage thus insures against the risk that a business-owner's property will not be able to function as intended.

That kind of interruption is precisely what happened when executive orders required restaurants to make physical, detrimental alterations that materially impaired the functionality of their premises. In barring on-premises dining, the executive orders caused the loss of millions of square feet of vibrant physical space that once served guests. The orders caused both property loss and property damage by dispossessing restaurants of their tangible spaces and forcing very real, material detrimental physical changes and alterations to their premises. Dining rooms closed or limited. Areas blocked off. Barriers erected. Physical layout altered. Fixtures and furniture removed. Self-service stations eliminated. Spaces shuttered. Floors marked. Plexiglass mounted. These are but a few of the physical manifestations of the direct physical loss and damage that restaurants have suffered.

Yet insurance carriers have refused coverage and issued blanket denials without just cause. Those denials are frequently rapid, featuring boilerplate language asserting that coverage is excluded because the restaurant supposedly has not satisfied the industry-standard “physical loss of or damage” requirement. Those denials follow the telegraphed statements by insurance industry executives and trade groups.<sup>24</sup> Those denials are also frequently issued without meaningful (if any) investigation, regardless of the information provided by the policyholder.

Many restaurants in Iowa, and thousands of restaurants across the country, have challenged these wrongful denials and sought relief in the courts. Without such relief, the restaurant industry is in serious danger. Many restaurants will be out of business entirely, many restaurant-industry employees will be out of work, and many residents will be robbed of the neighborhood places and spaces they treasure.

---

<sup>24</sup> For example, Rick Parks, CEO of Society Insurance, Inc., prospectively concluded in an ostensibly private memo to “agency partners” on March 16, 2020—before most businesses had even submitted claims but after many states had “taken steps to limit operations of certain businesses”—that Society’s policies would likely not cover losses caused by a “widespread governmental imposed shutdown.” Compl. at Ex. A, Big Onion Tavern Grp., LLC v. Society Ins., Inc., No. 20-cv-02005 (N.D. Ill. Mar. 27, 2020), ECF No. 1-1 <https://propertycasualtyfocus.com/wp-content/uploads/2020/04/Big-Onion-v-Society-Insurance.pdf>. In early April, the American Property Casualty Insurance Association similarly opined, without reference to any policy language, that “[p]andemic outbreaks are uninsured because they are uninsurable.” Press Release, APCIA Releases New Business Interruption Analysis (Apr. 6, 2020).

II. This Is An Important Case Of First Impression Where The Court Applies De Novo Review.

This Court should closely scrutinize the policy language, apply longstanding principles of policy interpretation, and resolve this case based on the unprecedented circumstances under which it arises. That is particularly so here, for three reasons.

First, this Court reviews “a district court’s interpretation of the contractual provisions of an insurance policy de novo as a question of law.” Edgley v. Lappe, 342 F.3d 884, 888 (8th Cir. 2003). That means this Court “look[s] anew at the record which was before the district court when it made its decision,” as if the issue had not been previously decided. Colvin v. Taylor, 324 F.3d 583, 586 (8th Cir. 2003). “When de novo review is compelled, no form of appellate deference is acceptable.” Feibelman v. Worthen Nat’l Bank, N.A., 20 F.3d 835, 836 (8th Cir. 1994). This Court reviews the decision below “taking all allegations in the complaint as true and drawing all reasonable inferences in favor of the non moving party”—Whiskey River. Palmer v. Ill. Farmers Ins. Co., 666 F.3d 1081, 1083 (8th Cir. 2012).

Second, this Court will be among the first appellate courts to address the important issues presented here. This Court’s review comes at a time when shutdown-related business interruption litigation is in its early stages. More than 1,400 suits have been filed, but only a small fraction have been decided so far.<sup>25</sup>

---

<sup>25</sup> See Penn Law, Covid Coverage Litigation Tracker, <https://cclt.law.upenn.edu/cclt-case-list/>.

Among the trial-level decisions in state courts to date, a substantial number have found a plaintiff stated a claim for business interruption coverage and sufficiently pleaded physical loss or damage from executive shutdown orders.<sup>26</sup> Many federal district courts—including in this Circuit—have reached the same conclusion.<sup>27</sup>

---

<sup>26</sup> See, e.g., Minute order, Musso & Frank Grill Co., Inc. v. Mitsui Sumitomo Ins. USA Inc., No. 20STCV16681 (Cal. Super. Ct. Feb. 1, 2021); Order and opinion, Cherokee Nation v. Lexington Ins. Co., No. CV-2020-00150 (Okla., Cherokee Cnty., Jan. 29, 2021); Minute order, Goodwill Indus. of Orange County v. Phila. Indemnity Co., No. 30-2020-01169032 (Cal. Super. Ct. Jan. 28, 2021); Johansing Family Enters. LLC v. Cincinnati Specialty Underwriters Ins. Co., 2021 WL 145416 (Ohio Ct. C.P. Jan. 8, 2021); Optical Servs. USA/JCI v. Franklin Mut. Ins. Co., 2020 WL 5806576 (N.J. Super. Ct. Law Div. Aug. 13, 2020); Best Rest Motel, Inc. v. Sequoia Ins. Co., 2020 WL 7229856 (Cal. Super. Ct. Sept. 30, 2020); Order denying mot. to dismiss, Lombardi's, Inc. v. Indem. Ins. Co. of N. Am., No. DC-20-05751-A (Tex. Dist. Ct. Oct. 15, 2020); Taps & Bourbon on Terrace, LLC v. Underwriters at Lloyds London, 2020 WL 6380449 (Pa. Ct. C.P. Oct. 26, 2020); Perry Street Brewing Co., LLC v. Mut. of Enumclaw Ins., 2020 WL 7258116 (Wash., Spokane Cnty. Nov. 23, 2020); JGB Vegas Retail Lessee, LLC v. Starr Surplus Lines Ins. Co., 2020 WL 7190023 (Nev. Dist. Ct. Nov. 30, 2020); Dino Palmieri Salons, Inc. v. State Auto. Mut. Ins. Co., 2020 WL 7258114 (Ohio Ct. C.P. Nov. 17, 2020); Johnston Jewelers, Inc. v. Jewelers Mut. Ins. Co., S.I., 2020 WL 6556842 (Fla., Pinellas Cnty. Sept. 22, 2020); Cajun Conti LLC v. Certain Underwriters at Lloyd's, London, 2020 WL 6993790 (La. Civ. Dist. Ct. Nov. 4, 2020).

<sup>27</sup> See, e.g., Henderson Road Rest. Sys. Inc. v. Zurich Am. Ins. Co., 2021 WL 168422 (N.D. Ohio Jan. 19, 2021); Elegant Massage, LLC v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 2020 WL 7249624 (E.D. Va. Dec. 9, 2020); Urogynecology Specialist of Fla. LLC v. Sentinel Ins. Co., 2020 WL 5939172 (M.D. Fla. Sept. 24, 2020); Studio 417, Inc. v. Cincinnati Ins. Co., 2020 WL 4692385 (W.D. Mo. Aug. 12, 2020); Blue Springs Dental Care, LLC v. Owners Ins. Co., 2020 WL 5637963 (W.D. Mo. Sept. 21, 2020); K.C. Hopps, Ltd. v. Cincinnati Ins. Co., 2020 WL 6483108 (W.D. Mo. Aug. 12, 2020).

While other decisions have favored insurers, often they overlook important differences in factual allegations, fail to apply the reasonable-interpretation rule, or appear to be the result of a self-fulfilling feedback loop. Those cases simply repeat the same error that other courts committed in failing to properly apply the basic rules of insurance policy interpretation. As an example, an unreported decision from the Central District of California has already been cited by many other courts even though the unreported decision is not particularly detailed or persuasive, dismissed without prejudice, and has not yet been subject to appellate review. See 10E, LLC v. Travelers Indem. Co., 2020 WL 5359653 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 2, 2020), appeal pending No. 20-56206 (9th Cir.). It is therefore all the more important for this Court to carefully and seriously consider the issues here, take Whiskey River’s allegations as true, and apply core principles of policy interpretation in evaluating whether Whiskey River has sufficiently stated a claim.

Third, history shows that early decisions on issues of first impression are often viewed differently after appellate courts have the opportunity to weigh in. That has been true in insurance coverage cases involving the interpretation of industry-standard policy language. For example, “the meaning of the standard pollution exclusion clause’s exception for discharges that are ‘sudden and accidental’ ... precipitated ‘a legal war ... in state and federal courts from Maine to California.’” N. Ins. Co. of N.Y. v. Aardvark Assocs., Inc., 942 F.2d 189, 191 (3d Cir. 1991).

Eventually, courts viewed the split in authority as “at least suggesting that the term ‘sudden’ is susceptible of more than one reasonable definition.” New Castle Cnty. v. Hartford Accident & Indem. Co., 933 F.2d 1162, 1196 (3d Cir. 1991). And many courts eventually coalesced around a meaning that permitted policyholders to recover in many situations. See 9 Couch on Ins. § 127:11 (2020).

This Court faces a similar task in interpreting the meaning of the industry-standard physical loss or damage requirement. To date, many courts have concluded that the impact of executive shutdown orders satisfied that requirement, while others have disagreed. Those courts that have disagreed have often done so by relying on extrinsic redefinitions of the plain words of the policy, construing “physical loss” or “damage” not based on the language in the policy but instead based on case law or arcane legal publications—sources which ordinary laypersons would never consult.

More importantly, this disagreement among other courts merely reinforces that this Court is on solid ground in reversing the decision below. This Court should conclude that the plain meaning of the undefined, disjunctive terms “physical loss” or “damage”—as a normal layperson would understand them—applies to cover the loss which Whiskey River has alleged it incurred due to the executive shutdown orders.

III. Policy Language, Interpretation Principles, And Precedent Support Finding Executive Shutdown Orders Caused Physical Loss Or Damage.

On March 17, 2020, Governor Kim Reynolds issued an emergency order forcing restaurants to close for on-premises dining. On March 26, Governor Reynolds extended the closure of on-premises dining and, at the same time, prohibited dentists from performing any non-emergency procedures. Whiskey River alleged the executive orders “caused ‘direct physical loss of or damage to’ Plaintiffs’ covered property,” which among other things “frustrate[ed] the intended purpose of Plaintiffs’ businesses.” (Dkt. 22 ¶ 47.)

Illinois Casualty, like other insurers, has insisted that the shutdown orders that impaired policyholders’ property have not caused “direct physical loss of or damage to property.” Illinois Casualty, like other insurers, further contends that alleging physical loss or damage is insufficient to state a claim for coverage under the policy because only events like hurricanes and fires can cause the type of loss required to trigger business interruption coverage.

Illinois Casualty’s position is inconsistent with the policy’s language and foundational principles for interpreting it. The insurer’s position is also contrary to both historical and recent precedent—including in the insurance coverage context. The district court was therefore wrong to enter judgment on the pleadings.

A. The Policy Language And Policy-Interpretation Principles Support Reversing The Decision Below.

The words of an insurance policy are to be given “their ordinary meaning, one that a reasonable person would understand them to mean.” Bituminous Cas., 728 N.W.2d at 220-21. Courts must “strive to give effect to all the language of a contract” and in doing so, avoid an interpretation that renders part of an agreement “superfluous.” Fashion Fabrics of Iowa, Inc. v. Retail Invs. Corp., 266 N.W.2d 22, 26, 29 (Iowa 1978) (reversing decision finding contractual language was “surplusage at best”).

An insurer’s failure to clearly and explicitly define a covered loss or an exclusion creates an ambiguity, and ambiguous terms are construed “in the light most favorable to the insured.” Kalell v. Mut. Fire & Auto. Ins. Co., 471 N.W.2d 865, 866 (Iowa 1991); Boelman, 826 N.W.2d at 502. This construction “honors” the “reasonable expectations of applicants and intended beneficiaries regarding the terms of insurance contracts.” Grinnell Mut. Reins. Co. v. Voeltz, 431 N.W.2d 783, 786 (Iowa 1988).

Here, the plain language of the policy supports finding coverage for physical loss or damage caused by the executive orders that physically impaired restaurants. Illinois Casualty agreed to pay for “direct physical loss of or damage to property.” The policy provides coverage if the policyholder shows physical loss or physical damage to property. Black letter contract interpretation requires that the terms—separated by the disjunctive “or”—be given distinct meanings. See Fashion Fabrics, 266 N.W.2d at 26. The Policy’s use of the disjunctive “or” between the terms “physical loss of” and “damage” necessarily means that either a “loss” or “damage” qualifies for coverage and that “loss” is distinct from “damage.” See Denison Municipal Utilities v. Iowa Worker’s Compensation Commissioner, 857 N.W.2d 230, 236 (Iowa 2014). As many courts have recently held in the business interruption context, to read the policy otherwise would improperly collapse the meaning of “loss” with the meaning of “damage.”<sup>28</sup>

Had Illinois Casualty wished for “loss” and “damage” to mean the same thing, or to narrow the meaning of “physical loss” or “physical damage,” it was obligated to do so by defining or limiting those terms. See Cairns v. Grinnell Mut. Reins. Co., 398 N.W.2d 821 (Iowa 1987) (“It is therefore incumbent upon an insurer to define clearly and explicitly any limitations or exclusions to coverage expressed by broad promises.”). But Illinois Casualty chose not to define those terms—even though it knew, or should have known, that these terms can reasonably be construed (and indeed have been construed by courts) more broadly than the narrow self-serving definition that Illinois Casualty contends should provide the terms’ only meaning.

---

<sup>28</sup> See, e.g., Henderson Road, 2021 WL 168422, at *11-12; North State Deli, LLC v. The Cincinnati Ins. Co., 2020 WL 6281507, *3 (N.C. Sup. Ct. Oct. 9, 2020); Studio 417, 2020 WL 4692385, at *4; Blue Springs Dental, 2020 WL 5637963, at *4; Urogynecology Specialist of Fla., 2020 WL 5939172, at *4; K.C. Hopps, 2020 WL 6483108, at *1.

As a result, each of those terms must be given its plain and ordinary meaning consistent with the knowledge and expectations of an ordinary, reasonable consumer. Bituminous Cas. Corp., 728 N.W.2d at 220-21; accord Prudential Ins. Co. of Am. v. Martinson, 589 N.W.2d 64, 65 (Iowa 1999) (“When coverage is granted in broad terms, an insurer must define exclusions in clear and explicit terms and also bear the burden of proving the applicability of an exclusion.”).

Here, construing its allegations in the most favorable light, Whiskey River has met its burden to plead that it has suffered direct physical loss of or damage to property consistent with the plain and ordinary meaning of those terms. See Palmer, 666 F.3d at 1083. In “searching for the ordinary meaning of undefined terms in a policy,” like “loss” and “damage” here, Iowa courts “commonly refer to dictionaries.” A.Y. McDonald Indus., Inc. v. Ins. Co. of N. Am., 475 N.W.2d 607 (Iowa 1991). Merriam-Webster defines physical as “of or relating to material things” that are “perceptible especially through the senses.”<sup>29</sup> Loss is defined as “the act of losing possession,” “deprivation,” and the “failure to gain, win, obtain, or utilize.”<sup>30</sup> Put together, the ordinary meaning of “physical loss” includes when a property can no longer function as intended in the real, material world. Indeed, Whiskey River has been “deprived” of its property in a way that is perceptible through the senses because, during the effective period of the executive orders, Whiskey River no longer possessed the same rights to its property as it did before.

---

<sup>29</sup> Merriam-Webster Dictionary, <https://www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/physical>.

<sup>30</sup> Merriam-Webster Dictionary, <https://www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/loss>.

The district court erred in finding otherwise. The district court relied on case law to read “direct physical loss of or damage to property” as requiring “a physical invasion.” (Dkt. 38 at 16.) But that requirement that does not appear in the policy. Illinois Casualty did not define loss as requiring “physical invasion,” and no reasonable policyholder would have understood “loss” to require harm to the structure of the premises.

As Iowa courts have made clear, policyholders should not have to hire lawyers to understand what the word “loss” means. They should not have to guess whether a judge will require a loss to involve something beyond what the policy describes. Unambiguous terms should require no judicial redefinition or clarification. The plain language of the policy—in conjunction with the settled rules that undefined terms are given their ordinary meaning and ambiguities are construed in favor of a reasonable policyholder’s expectations—dictates that Whiskey River has sufficiently alleged as a matter of fact that the executive orders have caused “physical loss” by dispossessing it of its property and rendering that property nonfunctional. Whiskey River’s case should proceed.

B. Precedent Supports Reversing The Decision Below.

In reversing the district court’s decision, this Court will be squarely within the mainstream of coverage decisions, including well-reasoned case law on this very question.

A prime example is Henderson Road Restaurant Systems, Inc. v. Zurich American Insurance Co., 2021 WL 168422 (N.D. Ohio Jan. 19, 2021). Applying policy-interpretation principles like Iowa’s, the district court granted summary judgment for the policyholder and found that executive orders caused “physical loss” under the plain language of the policy at issue because “the properties could no longer be used for their intended purposes—as dine-in restaurants.” Id. at *10. Notably, the court in Henderson Road explicitly rejected the contrary conclusions in 10E, 2020 WL 5359653 at *1, and Malaube, LLC v. Greenwich Ins. Co., 2020 WL 5051581 (S.D. Fla. Aug. 26, 2020)—cases on which the district court relied in erroneously entering judgment on the pleadings (see Dkt. 38 at 16).

Courts around the country have come to similar conclusions. In Elegant Massage, LLC v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., a district court in Virginia denied an insurer’s motion to dismiss a claim for business income coverage under a policy that required a “direct physical loss,” explaining that the term’s meaning was ambiguous because “if Defendants wanted to limit liability of ‘direct physical loss’ to strictly require structural damage to property, then Defendants, as the drafters of the policy, were required to do so explicitly.” 2020 WL 7249624, at *6-10 (E.D. Va. Dec. 9, 2020).

Likewise, in North State Deli, LLC v. The Cincinnati Insurance Co., the court, applying policy interpretation principles like Iowa’s, reasoned that “the ordinary meaning of the phrase ‘direct physical loss’ includes the inability to utilize or possess something in the real, material, or bodily world.” 2020 WL 6281507, *3 (N.C. Sup. Ct. Oct. 9, 2020). The court concluded that “‘direct physical loss’ describes the scenario” where policyholders “lose the full range of rights and advantages of using or accessing their business property,” which was “precisely the loss caused by” executive orders that forbade the policyholders from “putting their property to use for the income-generating purposes for which the property was insured.”

As in Henderson Road and Elegant Massage, the North State Deli court held that the policy was ambiguous and, construing that ambiguity against the insurer, found that “direct physical loss” includes “the loss of use or access to covered property even where that property has not been structurally altered.” The court therefore granted summary judgment to the plaintiff.

Numerous other courts—including in this Circuit—have ruled against insurers for the same reasons. See, e.g., Studio 417, 2020 WL 4692385, at *1, *5 (holding that “loss” and “damage” must be given separate meanings, and that “even absent a physical alteration, a physical loss may occur when the property is uninhabitable or unusable for its intended purpose.”); Blue Springs Dental Care, LLC v. Owners Ins. Co., 2020 WL 5637963 (W.D. Mo. Sept. 21, 2020); K.C. Hopps, Ltd. v. Cincinnati Ins. Co., 2020 WL 6483108 (W.D. Mo. Aug. 12, 2020); Hill and Stout PLLC v. Mut. of Enumclaw Ins. Co., No. 20-2-07925-1, Order at 6, ¶¶ 30-31 (Wash., King Cnty. Nov. 13, 2020) (finding “direct physical loss” as “an average lay person would understand by [that] phrase” when insured’s “property could not physically be used for its intended purpose,” i.e., it “was deprived from using it”); see also, e.g., supra nn.22-23.

These cases favoring policyholders are consistent with longstanding precedent across the country. For example, more than 50 years ago, a California appellate court considered the case of a couple whose home was left “standing on the edge of and partially overhanging a newly formed 30-foot cliff,” the result of a landslide. Hughes v. Potomac Ins. Co. of District of Columbia, 199 Cal. App. 2d 239, 243 (1962). The insurer argued the policy only insured the house itself not the land underneath it. Id. at 245-46. The court rejected that argument, reasoning that it would “render the policy illusory.” Id. at 248-49.

To accept the insurer’s argument, the court held, “would be to conclude that a building which has been overturned or which has been placed in such a position as to overhang a steep cliff has not been ‘damaged’ so long as its paint remains intact and its walls still adhere to one another. Despite the fact that a ‘dwelling building’ might be rendered completely useless to its owners, [the insurer] would deny that any loss or damage had occurred unless some tangible injury to the physical structure itself could be detected. Common sense requires that a policy should not be so interpreted in the absence of a provision specifically limiting coverage in this manner.” Id.

Similarly, in Murray v. State Farm Fire & Cas. Co., the Supreme Court of West Virginia considered a case where large boulders had fallen from a man-made highwall onto two homes, leaving the homes of two other plaintiffs at risk of further rockfalls. 203 W.Va. 477 (1998). The insurer argued that, while the policies might cover the damage to those homes actually hit by rocks, they “do not cover any losses occasioned by the potential damage that could be caused by future rockfalls.” Id. at 492-93. The court reasoned that “[d]irect physical loss’ provisions require only that a covered property be injured, not destroyed.”

The court continued: the insured properties “were homes, buildings normally thought of as a safe place in which to dwell or live .... The record suggests that until the highwall on defendant Harris’ property is stabilized, the plaintiffs’ houses could scarcely be considered ‘homes’ in the sense that rational persons would be content to reside there.” Id. It therefore held that the “direct physical loss[es]” covered by the policy, “including those rendering the insured property unusable or uninhabitable, may exist in the absence of structural damage to the insured property.” Id.<sup>31</sup>

Whiskey River has alleged that its insured property suffered physical loss and has been rendered materially non-functional. Focusing exclusively on structural damage ignores the well-reasoned analysis which suggests that even if a restaurant remains standing, it suffers physical loss if it can no longer function as intended. Just like a home suffers physical loss when it is uninhabitable, a restaurant suffers physical loss when it is rendered non-functional and can no longer serve customers on premises as intended.

This Court should conclude that Whiskey River has sufficiently stated a claim by alleging the executive orders caused “physical loss of or damage to” covered property and rendered the property non-functional for its intended purpose.

---

<sup>31</sup> See also, e.g., Gregory Packaging, Inc. v. Travelers Prop. Cas. Co. of Am., 2014 WL 6675934, at *5 (D.N.J. Nov. 25, 2014) (“property can sustain physical loss or damage without experiencing structural alteration”); Dundee Mut. Ins. Co. v. Marifjeren, 587 N.W.2d 191, 194 (N.D. 1998) (finding coverage because covered properties “no longer performed the function for which they were designed.”); Oregon Shakespeare Festival Ass’n v. Great Am. Ins. Co., 2016 WL 3267247, at *9 (D. Ore. June 7, 2016) (finding “direct property loss or damage” when property became “uninhabitable and unusable for its intended purpose.”); Sentinel Mgt. Co. v. New Hampshire Ins. Co., 563 N.W.2d 296, 300 (Minn. Ct. App. 1997) (finding “direct, physical loss to property under an all-risk insurance policy” when “a building’s function may be seriously impaired or destroyed”); Homeowners Choice Prop. & Cas. v. Maspons, 211 So. 3d 1067, 1069 (Fla. Dist. Ct. App. 2017) (“‘direct’ and ‘physical’ loss” occurs when property fails “to perform its function”).

CONCLUSION

The district court's decision should be reversed.

February 12, 2021

Angelo I. Amador
RESTAURANT LAW CENTER
2055 L Street, NW, 7th Floor
Washington, DC 20036
(202) 492-5037
aamador@restaurant.org

Respectfully submitted,

/s/ Gabriel K. Gillett

John H. Mathias Jr.
David M. Kroeger
Gabriel K. Gillett
Counsel of Record
Michael F. Linden
JENNER & BLOCK LLP
353 N. Clark Street
Chicago, IL 60654
(312) 840-7220
ggillett@jenner.com

Counsel for Amici Curiae

CERTIFICATE OF COMPLIANCE

Pursuant to Fed. R. App. P. 29(a)(4)(G), I certify that this brief complies with the type-volume limitation of Fed. R. App. P. 29(a)(5), and 32(a)(7)(B) because this brief contains 6,480 words.

This document complies with the typeface requirements of Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(5) and the type style requirements of Fed. R. App. P. 32(a)(6) because this document has been prepared in a proportionally spaced typeface using Microsoft Office Word 2016 in 14-point Times New Roman font.

This brief complies with Circuit Rule 28A(h) because the files have been scanned for viruses and are virus-free.

/s/ Gabriel K. Gillett
Gabriel K. Gillett

CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

I hereby certify that on February 12, 2021, I electronically filed the foregoing with the Clerk of the Court for the United States Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit by using the CM/ECF system. I certify that all participants in the case are registered CM/ECF users and that service will be accomplished by the CM/ECF system.

/s/ Gabriel K. Gillett
Gabriel K. Gillett